Hammond Castle

Gloucester, Ma

1 John Hays Hammond, Jr. built his medieval-style castle between the years 1926 and 1929 to serve both as his home and as a backdrop for his collection of Roman, medieval, and Renaissance artifacts. The castle was constructed as a wedding present for his wife Irene Fenton Hammond to prove how much he cared for her. In addition, the building housed the Hammond Research Corporation, from which Dr. Hammond produced over 400 patents and the ideas for over 800 inventions. Second only to Thomas Alva Edison in number of patents, John Hammond was one of America's premier inventors. His most important work was the development of remote control via radio waves, which earned him the title, "The Father of Remote Control."

Gloucester Cinema

Gloucester, Ma

2 It's sort of absurd to go see movies in theaters nowadays. Money's tight, there's OnDemand and Netflix streaming and cable and whatnot. But there's a magic in going to see movies, and I'm afraid I won't ever be able to stop. It's just different than watching movies at home.

One of Martin Scorsese's favorite facts about film has to do with how projection works. Movies, even ones that are digitally projected, are a series of photographs. In the case of film there are 24 frames per second. That movement you think you see on screen is really just happening in your mind. In a very real way, every movie you've ever seen in the theater is a dream that you yourself created.

Movies have a way with our lives. They might trigger something special for us and inspire us to a greater, more empowered life. It's what a really good movie can do — affect us, transform us, provoke us — more viscerally, more potently, than any other art form can do, writes Pradeep Sebastian.

Located in the Liberty Tree Mall, AMC offers the full modern movie going experience.
