Wicked Tuna follows a group of salty fishermen from the nation's oldest seaport, Gloucester, Massachusetts, as they make their living the way it's been done for centuries—rod and reel fishing, one catch at a time—all in pursuit of the bluefin tuna. One "monstah" bluefin can be worth more than $20,000, and with that kind of money on the line, every captain is fighting to be the best in the fleet.

As one of Hollywood's highest-paid actors – he earned an estimated $65 million last year – Sandler can certainly afford the oceanfront manse. Though he's a big movie star, Sandler didn't act like a diva, according to locals. He often played basketball at the Gloucester YMCA, and was a regular at Long Beach Dairy Maid, the Chinese restaurant Dragon Light, and at Frank's Sub Zone, where owner Frank Carini hung a framed poster for Sandler's latest flick "Funny People." "Nice guy," says Carini, who served the actor steak tips. "We don't get a celebrity like him in here very often."

The Academy Award winner regularly lunches at McT's Lobster House & Tavern and on Mother's Day stepped behind the bar at Captain Carlo's Fish Market to serve beer and wine to patrons.
